

Special Lecture by Dr. Michael Boeckh CMV and Respiratory Virus Infection in Immunocompromised Hosts

 March 24, 2025 | 12:00–13:00 (JST, UTC+9)

 Healthcare professionals

 All participants get on-demand access, plus live streaming or limited on-site attendance in Japan

 Participation Fee: ¥500

Background of Dr. Boeckh

<http://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pubmed/?term=Boeckh+M>

(Complete List of Publications)

- Professor, University of Washington, and Head, Infectious Disease Sciences Program, Fred Hutchinson Cancer Center
- Renowned Researcher in Viral Infections (CMV, SARS-CoV-2, and Respiratory Viruses) in Immunocompromised Hosts
- Recipient of the 2019 IDSA John F. Enders Lecture
- Co-Editor of Transplant Infections, 4th Edition (Textbook)
- Section Editor of “Immunocompromised Host Infections” in UpToDate

Key Highlights

- ◆ Update on CMV and respiratory virus Infections in immunocompromised Hosts
- ◆ Focus on pediatric and adult populations
- ◆ A valuable opportunity to learn from a globally renowned expert

Please register using the URL or by scanning the QR code.
An invitation will be sent to the email address you provided during registration, allowing you to access the webinar.

Registration URL/QR Code: <https://forms.office.com/r/ZcFkkzq0Lp>

Hosted by the National Center for Child Health and Development

For inquiries: Education and Training Center Email: ncchd_seminar@ncchd.go.jp